ARGUMENT

Edwin, engaged to Angelina, falls in love with another and is taken to court for breach of promise. Though both Judge and Jury indicate they have had similar episodes, they have little sympathy for him. Edwin proposes various extraordinary solutions, but in vain. He offers to marry her if he may marry his other sweetheart later, but her lawyer objects. Edwin tries to dissuade her from wanting to marry him at all, saying that when he is drunk he would beat her. The Judge proposes that Edwin be made drunk to see whether he would, but her lawyer objects.

Finally, the Judge, eager to end the trial, arrives at the perfect Gilbert and Sullivan solution.

The Savoyards

The success of Gilbert & Sullivan's operas prompted their business manager, Richard D'Oyly Carte, to build a theater for them in the heart of London. On the site of the ancient Savoy Palace, D'Oyly Carte built the first theater in the world to be lit by electricity. It opened on October 10, 1881, with Patience. The works of Gilbert & Sullivan are so closely associated with the theater that they are often called the Savoy Operas, and their devotees are called Savoyards.
